Job Summary

Moris Media is Currently Hiring for Public Relations Executive (PR) - Media Relations & Client Management Japan this job May requires you to be a highly extroverted, confident, and people focused professional who can actively represent individual brands, business organisations, and celebrities. This role demands strong face to face style communication in virtual environments, continuous interaction with clients, and proactive engagement with national and international media stakeholders. The position is designed for professionals who are comfortable initiating conversations, maintaining visibility, and confidently presenting client narratives. Clear articulation, persuasive communication, and the ability to build rapport quickly are essential, as the role operates at the intersection of client trust, media credibility, and public perception.

The Public Relations Executive (PR) - Media Relations & Client Management is responsible for deeply understanding client requirements, including personal branding goals, business positioning needs, and public image expectations. The role requires converting these requirements into clear PR strategies that align with editorial standards and media relevance. This includes coordinating with journalists, editors, and media houses, sharing approved narratives, and ensuring consistent messaging across platforms. Strong verbal and written communication skills are critical, as the role involves explaining PR strategies, handling media responses, and communicating outcomes to clients with clarity and confidence. Managing feedback, coverage status, and editorial decisions professionally is a core responsibility.

This role demands a professional who thrives in relationship driven environments and is comfortable managing multiple conversations simultaneously. The executive is expected to maintain ongoing communication with national and international media contacts, follow up consistently, and manage client expectations with maturity. The position requires accountability, emotional intelligence, and the ability to handle rejection or delays without affecting client confidence. Working within a remote team structure, the role requires self discipline, time control, and ownership of assigned accounts. This position contributes directly to client retention, reputation stability, and long term credibility, making communication strength and interpersonal confidence essential for success.

Primary Responsibilities

Primary Roles and Responsibilities

1. Act as the primary communication point between clients and national and international media stakeholders, ensuring professionalism and clarity at all times.
2. Understand individual brand, business, and celebrity requirements in depth, including image goals, positioning needs, and public expectations.
3. Develop clear PR strategies based on client objectives, media relevance, and editorial suitability.

4. Coordinate directly with journalists, editors, and media houses to pitch approved narratives and secure appropriate media opportunities.
5. Represent clients confidently in virtual interactions, maintaining strong face to face style communication in remote environments.
6. Maintain consistent messaging across all media communications in line with approved client positioning.
7. Explain PR strategies, media responses, and coverage outcomes to clients with confidence and transparency.
8. Manage media feedback, approvals, and editorial decisions in a professional and structured manner.
9. Handle media rejections or delays calmly, ensuring client trust and confidence remain intact.
10. Maintain ongoing relationships with media contacts, ensuring regular follow ups and professional engagement.
11. Manage multiple client conversations simultaneously while maintaining accuracy and responsiveness.
12. Coordinate with internal teams remotely to ensure alignment on messaging, timelines, and approvals.
13. Maintain detailed communication records and reporting for assigned client accounts.
14. Take full ownership of assigned accounts, ensuring accountability, time discipline, and consistent delivery.
15. Support client retention and reputation stability through reliable communication, relationship management, and ethical PR practices.
